3. Reason for the revision of the dividend forecasts

In order to increase corporate value and maximize shareholder value, we are seeking to maintain an optimal balance between meeting demand for capital in our core and growth areas through reinvestments of our retained earnings, and based on the level of stable cash generation, directly providing returns to shareholders by paying out cash dividends. We have decided to revise the interim dividend to ¥85 per share (an increase of ¥10 per share from the original forecast) after taking into consideration the Core Operating Cash Flow and Profit for the Year Attributable to Owners of the Parent in the revised forecasts announced today for the year ending March 31, 2024, as well as the stability and continuity of dividend payments. In addition, the forecast for year-end dividend has also been revised up to ¥85 per share (an increase of ¥10 per share from the original forecast). As a result, the annual dividend for the year ending

March 31, 2024 is forecast to be ¥170 per share (an increase of ¥20 per share from the original forecast and ¥30 per share from the previous year). For the details of the revised forecasts for the year ending March 31, 2024, please refer to the “Consolidated Financial Results for the Six-Month Period Ended September 30, 2024[IFRS]” announced today.
